Nomadd is built for business

So much of our world has changed in recent years. External factors beyond our control are impacting the ability of businesses to survive and prosper. Customers have less disposable income, businesses are struggling to find staff, meet overheads, and source product, while suppliers face supply-chain disruption.

Now, more than ever, organisations need to focus on those elements of their business that they can control and improve. Organisational efficiency is an area of focus that can significantly reduce costs, improve resource utilisation, and build and retain customer loyalty.

Making digital transformation a reality

We don't simply use technology to automate your business processes, we optimise them. That's because Nomadd is more than a digital signatures solution. It's a platform that enables organisations to easily configure, execute, track, and manage the performance of their business processes.

- The configuration step allows you to:
 - digitise those steps and artifacts that may still be manual or paper-based, e.g. formfilling and signing
 - automate those tasks that may still be executed manually, e.g. sending of emails, reminders, and escalations
- The execution step allows you to:
 - execute each workflow for each unique instance of the process
- The tracking dashboard provides real-time insight into the progress of every workflow executed
- The performance management features allow you to analyse the efficiency of each process task over time to identify bottlenecks, required interventions, etc

At its core, Nomadd enables you to easily configure your processes as template workflows to digitise, automate, and optimise your operations.

Features include the ability to:

- Share workflow templates with a group to keep processes consistent
- Pre-define the distribution path of documents and the order of distribution
- Digitise your existing documents and forms using the document designer
- Easily add editable text, date, and signature fields to your documents
- Pre-define what supporting documents may be needed by individual recipients
- Automate reminders and escalations
- Sign using multiple signing methods, including WACOM sign pads, to cater for all use cases
- Add additional levels of recipient authentication
- Access a comprehensive audit trail

Our paperless and digital process also enables your mobile agents to go where your customers are, having immediate access to all necessary data from any location.

Where customer self-service is required, Nomadd provides recipient access to view and complete forms, and sign and attach documents directly from their own smart devices.

All this without needing to download and install any software or app.

That's the power of the Nomadd.
